COLONEL KRISTY L. “KRUSH” MOORE

Col. Kristy L. Moore is the Director of Analysis and Assessments at Headquarters Air Education and Training Command, Joint Base San Antonio-Randolph, Texas. She leads analysis and assessment programs to meet Department of the Air Force, Department of Defense, AETC and joint service mission objectives. She enables decision advantage across the Force Development enterprise through the deployment of program evaluation, continuous process improvement, analytics and artificial intelligence. Additionally, she delivers independent and objective analytical solutions for AETC test and evaluation and training acquisition programs.

Colonel Moore received her commission from Officer Training School in 2002. She has served in a variety of positions at the research laboratory, squadron, group, numbered air force, and combatant command levels. Additionally, she has been a deputy chief of staff and commander's action group director, operations flight commander, chief analyst, executive assistant to the Secretary of the Air Force's Scientific Advisory Board, squadron commander, and has a combined 25 hours in the F-15D and F-16D as a flight test analyst. Prior to assuming her current role, Colonel Moore served as the Chief, Analysis and Reporting Division, Joint Center for Electromagnetic Readiness, U.S. Strategic Command, Nellis Air Force Base, Nevada.
